

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

The Lyxor/Bridgewater Core Global Macro Fund ("the Fund") is a fundamental, systematic and diversified Global Macro portfolio. The Fund leverages Bridgewater's accumulated understanding of how to best time markets and capture risk premiums into a UCITS portfolio. The Fund combines Bridgewater's flagship investment strategies Pure Alpha Major Markets (since 2010) and All Weather (since 1996) based on an equally risk-budget allocation. The Fund targets a gross excess return of 8% with 9% volatility and low correlation to traditional asset classes through a mix of long, short and market neutral positions.

MONTHLY COMMENTARY

Financial markets endured further volatility in February following the escalation of the geopolitical crisis between Russia and Ukraine. The surprise invasion of Ukraine on Thursday spurred a risk-off move ahead of a rally following the imposition of sanctions on Russia. The equity markets had a rough month with a few equities markets momentarily plunged into bear market territory before regaining their footing. Value equities once again outpaced growth stocks as factor rotation persisted. On the bond side, investors' attention was drawn to central banks' hiking cycles before being absorbed by the turmoil in Ukraine. Despite a strong recovery in the last few days of the month, global bonds fell in February. The rising inflation and supply shortages were exacerbated by geopolitical tensions, and the commodity complex prices skyrocketed. The rise was widespread across all industries, including precious metals, which reaffirmed their safe-haven status. The U.S. dollar maintained its risk-off stance and held up well versus a basket of currencies. The Lyxor / Bridgewater Core Global Macro Fund (the "Fund") finished up in February despite the challenging market conditions. Most of the gains were recorded on the alpha book but the strategic beta allocation managed also to contribute.

The commodity cluster, via gold and diversified index, posted an outstanding contribution for the second month in a row. The fixed income book weathered the storm and finished slightly up. The Fund encountered losses stemming from the strategic long fixed income allocation as well as some small sovereign credit exposures. The tactical bearish view on nominal bonds was once again profitable and limited the pain. The inflation linked bonds allocation contributed as well.

The equities book closed the month in the red, but a decreased long exposure – the Fund's net long allocation has declined by around a quarter since the beginning of the year – helped to mitigate the pain. The alpha book proved particularly helpful and post gains over the month. The book however suffered from its constructive views in Japan and Emerging markets countries.

The tactical currency book finished the month slightly down. The long exposure to U.S. dollar against developed market currencies was positive as global risk prompted a flight to safety in favor of the greenback. However, long exposure to emerging markets currencies erased profits.

RETURN (gross of fees, in USD)

Bridgewater ability to stress-test their logic allows them to establish explicit performance expectations for their strategies. Based on Bridgewater's stress tests across countries and all types of economic environments, the expectation is for the Fund to produce a gross return-to-risk ratio of around 0.9. At 9% expected risk, this translates to an expected average annual gross excess return of 8%. In the above chart, we show the cumulative performance of the Fund against these long-term expectations. The green and blue lines represent our range of expectations and the red line reflects the actual cumulative gross excess return of the Fund. These start off as empty cones, and as real-time performance unfolds we plot that performance against Bridgewater's expectations.

MAIN RISKS

Risk of losses : The price of Shares can go up as well as down and investors may not realise their initial investment. The investments and the positions held by the Fund are subject to (i) fluctuations in the Strategy (ii) market fluctuations, (iii) reliability of counterparties and (iv) operational efficiency in the actual implementation of the investment policy adopted by the Fund in order to realise such investments or take such positions. Consequently, the investments of the Fund are subject to, inter alia, the risk of declines in the Strategy (which may be abrupt and severe), market risks, credit exposure risks and operational risks. At any time, the occurrence of any such risks is likely to generate a significant depreciation in the value of the Shares. Due to the risks embedded in the investment objective adopted by the Fund, the value of the Shares may decrease substantially and even fall to zero, at any time.

Counterparty risk: the Fund is exposed to the risk that any credit institution with which it has concluded an agreement or a transaction could become insolvent or otherwise default. If such an event occurs, you could lose a significant part of your investment.

Credit risk: the Fund is exposed to the risk that the credit quality of any direct or indirect debtor of the Fund (be it a state, a financial institution or a corporate) deteriorates or that any such entity defaults. This could cause the net asset value of the Fund to decline.

Operational risk and asset custody risk: in the event of an operational failure within the management company, or one of its representatives, investors could experience delays or other disruptions.

Liquidity risk: in certain circumstances, financial instruments held by the Fund or to which the value of the Fund is linked could suffer a temporary lack of liquidity. This could cause the Fund to lose value, and/or to temporarily suspend the publication of its net asset value and/or to refuse subscription and redemption requests.

Risk of using FD: the Fund invests in financial derivative instruments in order to reach its investment objective. These instruments may include a range of risks which could lead to their adjustment or result in their early termination. This could lead to the loss of a part of your investment.

Capital at risk: the initial capital invested is not guaranteed. As a consequence, investor's capital is at risk and the amount originally invested may not be recovered

Please refer to the Fund's Prospectus for a complete description of the Investment Risks.
